Orderly Platoon No. 1 --- Sergt Major, Staff Sergt, H. Dye.
Orderly Bugler, L. Cpl. Pegram.

It is hoped that the reduction of the price to one halfpenny per sheet, will enable all Officers and Staff to purchase a copy weekly.

We do not know what the future holds in store for us, either individually, or as a Company, but the outlook is hopeful, and it would seem that the "3rd" is entering upon a Season full of promise. If each one will do his part of the work cheerfully, always playing the game, the results will not only be excellent, but dazzling.

Before long an excellent piece of good news may possibly reach the Company. That has set some of you guessing, and I regret I cannot say more at present, but will do so at the earliest opportunity.

Our first Football Match is being played Saturday next. It is hoped that our 1st XI will be more formidable than last year, and that we shall take a higher position on the Battalion League Table.

Collections at Bible Class - What a collection last Sunday - Officers and Staff about 4/0d, and the rest of the Company 1/5gd, - There is not the slightest doubt there is something wrong somewhere. Perhaps the Sergeants and Corporals will just pay a visit to their Money Box before leaving home on Sunday mornings. Of course to take some money out I mean, not to put it in so that you will not have any on reaching Bible Class. No joking on one side, we shall have to do better, and unless you would like some more remarks next week make that collection up to ten shillings next Sunday.

BADGES - We are all proud of the Badges we won whilst serving in the Ranks of the Company, and I daresay some of you boys sometimes sit or stand dreaming of the future. You picture yourself with a Sergeants Cap and Crossbelt, and aim gaily decorated with decorations. Why not? It can be done, but these badges require working for. They need keenness hard work, and unselfishness. Now at the beginning of the Session is the time to think of these things. Make up your minds that at the end of the Season you will each one have a Perfect Record and an Efficiency Badge, and if you are successful well - the Company is bankrupt.
