Unveiling of Cenotaph.

On Sunday afternoon the Enfield Cenotaph is to be unveiled by Lt. Gen. Sir Francis Lloyd, and our Company will be represented by 25 N.C.Os and Boys.

It is a most solemn occasion and we are all proud of the opportunity thus afforded our Company of paying tribute to those men who so gloriously made the supreme sacrifice.

Parade in Market Square. 2.10pm.

Educational Test.

You will recollect that a few months ago an Educational Test was held, when 10 members of our Company sat for the Examination. The Examiner has placed the Competing Companies in the following order. 2nd Enfield, 3rd, Enfield, 5th Enfield and 7th Enfield. Special mention is made of the excellent paper written by Serjt. Frank Head (now S.Serjt) who would undoubtedly have topped the list had he answered more questions. Further details will be given next week.

History of the 3rd.

I am greatly indebted to an old boy who has kindly sent me during the past week an article setting out briefly the history of our Company. Modesty prevents him from allowing me to publish his name, but we thank him all the same.

Below I give the letter he has sent me and next week we shall commence on the Company's history.

"In attempting to write some of the 3rd's history so that you chaps get to know some of the wonderful past of your Company, I want to say right now that I do not pretend it will be a perfect record of events, in fact now and again I might even be wrong, as I am only recording chiefly from memory, never having kept a Diary. The Editor of your paper has asked me if I could do something in this way for him, and so make the news-sheet extra interesting, and in a very weak moment I consented. It will run as a serial story does, and will for a while be "contained in our next" sort of style. I want to say just this, the Editor has promised to keep my name out of the paper so that I cannot be argued with if every you meet me,
